RESEARCH PROFILE

My research lies in digital humanities and computational social science: I analyze large-scale bibliographic and textual data to study how scholarly and cultural knowledge is produced and communicated.

Keywords: digital humanities · computational social science · cultural analytics · bibliometrics and science of science · natural language processing and text mining · scholarly communication and open access · Korean datasets and language models

EDUCATION

Mar. 2018 – Aug. 2022	Ph.D. in Data Science, Sungkyunkwan University (Dept. of Interaction Science) Dissertation: Mapping the Knowledge Structure of Korean Humanities: Bibliographic Data Analysis of Humanities Journal Articles in the Korea Citation Index, 2004–2019. Advisor: Jang Hyun Kim.
Mar. 2015 – Feb. 2017	M.S. in Culture Technology, KAIST (Graduate School of Culture Technology) Thesis: The Shift of Critical Language: The Shifting Aspects of Concept Words in Literature-Magazine Criticism, 1995–2015. Advisors: Wonjae Lee and Bong Gwan Jun.
Mar. 2008 – Feb. 2015	B.A. in Korean Language and Literature, Sungkyunkwan University (dual major: Film, Television and Multimedia)

ACADEMIC & RESEARCH APPOINTMENTS

Sep. 2024 – Present	Assistant Professor, Cultural Informatics, Graduate School of Korean Studies, The Academy of Korean Studies
Sep. 2024 – Present	Co-Director, Center for Digital Humanities, The Academy of Korean Studies
Jan. 2023 – Aug. 2024	Research Assistant Professor, Center for Digital Humanities & Computational Social Sciences, KAIST
Mar. 2024 – May 2024	Research Fellow, Trier Center for Digital Humanities, Universität Trier, Germany (CLS INFRA)
Nov. 2021 – Dec. 2022	Research Associate, Center for Digital Humanities & Computational Social Sciences, KAIST
Jan. 2018 – Nov. 2021	Graduate Research Assistant, Data Science & Social Analytics Lab (DSSAL), Sungkyunkwan University
Jun. 2017 – Dec. 2018	Manager, Data Research Team, Bigvalue (real estate data analysis)

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

- Exploring Humanities Data Design, Cultural Informatics, The Academy of Korean Studies (Fall 2025).
- Introduction to Digital Humanities: Foundations of Methodology, Cultural Informatics, The Academy of Korean Studies (Fall 2025).
- Methodology of Digital Korean Language and Literature Research 2, Graduate School, Dept. of Korean Language and Literature, Sungkyunkwan University (Spring 2025).
- Methodology of Digital Content Compilation in Foreign Languages, Cultural Informatics, The Academy of Korean Studies (Spring 2025).
- Research on Humanities Information Compilation 1, Cultural Informatics, The Academy of Korean Studies (Spring 2025).
- Computer Programming for Humanities Knowledge, Cultural Informatics, The Academy of Korean Studies (Fall 2024).
- Social Network Analysis for Digital Humanities, Hallym University (2024).
- Introduction to Digital Humanities II: Computational Literary Studies, Korea University (Fall 2023; selected as a Best Course).
- Literature as Data: The Potential of Quantitative Text Analysis, Winter Institute in Digital Humanities, Korea (Jan. 2023).
- Digital Humanities and Natural Language Processing courses, Sungkyunkwan University (2020–2021).
- Digital Humanities courses, Hankuk University of Foreign Studies (Spring 2021); AI and VR liberal arts courses, Baekseok University (2020–2021).

TECHNICAL SKILLS & METHODS

- Programming and data analysis: Python, R, SQL; reproducible, version-controlled data workflows.
- NLP and machine learning: topic modeling, word embeddings, text classification, deep learning, LLM/RAG pipelines.
- AI agent engineering: LLM-based agents, tool use, and agentic research workflows.
- Bibliometrics and network analysis: KCI, OpenAlex, citation and reference data; Gephi, networkx, igraph, VOSviewer, CiteSpace.
- Knowledge organization and data infrastructure: corpus and dataset construction, metadata and TEI/XML, Linked Open Data (RDF/SPARQL), RDBMS, NoSQL.
- Visualization: statistical graphics, network visualization, data storytelling for the humanities and social sciences.
